

Oh, Hashem

Edited version

Where do I belong
There must be a home for me
I'm searching for some place to go
Where I can find serenity.
If there's not a song,
A melody so clear
And when I sing it to myself,
It takes away my fears.

And even though I'm not that strong,
Please help me find where I belong.

MALKY'S LYRICS BEGIN HERE:

Hashem, please help me fly
And soar through the sky.
I want to know what everything
Is about in Your world,

But sometimes it's dark
But I know You're by my side
So I'm not scared at all.

I just say
Oh thank you Hashem
For today.

Oh...

I feel like I don't fit
Into anything
Everybody stares
When I'm sick like me.
But I know Hashem wanted it
To be just like this.
So I say, "Thank you, Hashem
For every day and every night."

Thank you, Hashem!
I know you want the best for me
And I'll take the test,
Whatever it takes to make me better
I'll fly so high, I'll reach sky
I'll past the test, and I'll be free
I'll be free.

Oh Hashem, thank you for my life.
For everything you planned
'Cause I know you planned the best for me
And that, I know, is the best.